

RYAN KAYET

ryan@riverlife.ca · 416-826-3116

Ryan is an up-and-coming filmmaker that excels as a screenwriter, director, and producer. After receiving high praise for his thesis film, Lurker, Ryan co-founded Riverlife Productions with a desire to focus on strong character driven narratives. He has directed the bravoFACT funded short film One Day at a Time, based on the award-winning Canadian play Cancer Can't Dance Like This, and several music videos that have been featured on Much Music and many online websites. Interview, a dramatic short about race, power, and the importance of choosing your words carefully, was funded by the Ontario Arts Council and had a successful festival run. His most recent project is the award winning comedic short, Cancel the F---ing Internet.

WORK

Cancel the F---ing Internet, Short Film

Director, Producer, Writer

Interview, Short Film

Director, Writer

Welcome to the Sandbox, Documentary

Director

Converts*, Web-Series

Director, Producer, Writer

One Day at a Time*, Short Film

Director

One in Eleven*, Music Video

Director, Producer

Pretty*, Music Video

Director

Where Would I Be*, Music Video

Director

Monster in Me*, Music Video

Director, Producer

Lurker*, Short Film

Director, Producer

Fade to Brown*, Video Sketches

Director

EDUCATION

DIPLOMA, FILM PRODUCTION, TORONTO FILM SCHOOL

BACHELOR OF ARTS, YORK UNIVERSITY

* Credit under Ryan's former surname, Kyriacopoulos